PARTIES IN CHINA

Interesting Facts from a Noted Chinese Leader.

Inner Affairs of the Barbarian E sire Communicated by One of the Kingdom's Progressive Men.

The following extracts from a memerandum prepared last autumn for an English friend by the Chinese reformer, Kang Yu Wei, will be read with interest at the present juncture, eays the London Times.

"In order properly to comprehend the inner affairs of the Chinese empire, the first thing needful is rightly to distinguish the different parties in China. The empress dowager holds on to the old ways; her party is known as the 'empress' party.' The emperor and his friends who desire reform are known as the 'emperor's party.' Then there is a third party, known as the 'middle party,' which is chiefly concerned with its own interests and dares not interfere in politics. Nine-tenths of the people and officials are comprised in this

"The empress dowager, notwith-standing that she is the head of the ruling party, pomesses few or no friends outside of official circles and the Yamens. Otherwise her influence is small. Her intimates are all Manchus. Yung Lu, appointed by her commander in chief; Kangwei, special commissioner for the collection of additional revenues from the provinces; Prince Tuan, Yun Yu, Bwai-ta-pu, etc. The only clever man among them is Yung Lu; the rest are densely ignorant and care for nothing but wealth and official rank. Of the high mili-tary officials. Tung-Fu-Siang belongs to the empress' party and Yuan-Shi-Kai to the emperor's. All the re-mainder may be said to belong to the middle party. Thus I am right in saying that the empress' party are few in number, although at the moment their power is great.
"The middle party, on the other hand, is spread throughout the whole ampire. The majority are in their heart of hearts devoted to the emperor, admiring his intelligence and rectitude, and these are slarmed and angry at the empress' ocurpation. They know how ignorant she is and what a dissolute life she has led for the last 30 years, and that the weakness of China is largely due to her misdeeds. But the high officials are too old; they sit blinking in the twilight, not daring to act, but leaving success or ruin to come, as the em peror or the empress gains the upper

At the time of the coup d'etat the empress falsely asserted that the emperor's party was planning revolt. She prohibited newspapers, killed and drove out hundreds of reformers and exiled numbers of high officials to the frontiers. Six of the reformers executed were high metropolitan officials, one s member of the grand council and one whom the emperor had nominated to be prime minister: all were the emperor's personal friends; they were behended without trial, while hundreds of smaller officials and thousands of the common people were proscribed. "hese measures were earried out in der to chip the emperor's wings. Why were all these leading men willing to ascociate themselves with the reform parsy? The answer is that they were byal subjects, anxious to eare their country and deserve the emperor's benevolence. You have only to read the Chinese newspapers Ko-wen-pao, published in Tientain; Su-pao, pub-lished in Shanghai; Chi-hain-pao, pub-lished in Macao; Ching-ni-pao, pubfished at Yokohama: Tien-nan-pao, published at Singapore—these are all published under foreign protection and so are able to speak the fruith; they one and all sympathize with the party of reform. The Japanese newspapers all take the same view; their criticism is independent. The empress downger is a deeptleus old woman. She is not the emperor's real-mother, and she had no hesitation in deposing him so as to retain her power. But she was wrong in taking Yang La's advice to depose the emperor and place the power in his (Yang Lu's) hoods. As soon as he got control of the northern troops Yeng Lu threw off the mask and did what he willed, and the empress lives in constant dread of treachery on the

A stary is told of a citizen of Glasgow which shows that contentment is a virtue really existent in some cases. One of the inhabitants was making his way homeward on a certain even-ing, and taking a good deal more than his share of the pavement, when he encountered a Blasgow town councilman walking along in a respectable fashion. 'The councilman, noticing his unbalanced condition, stopped and shouled with wrathful dignity: "What d'ye want?" To this his fellow townsman blithely replied: "I want-uaething! I'm as fu''s I can haud!"-Chicago Chronicle.
